A couple of people were helping me with gifts for this Christmas. While we were visiting family Christmas Eve, some of the gifts were dropped off on our porch in white garbage bags. In a brief amount of time, it was stolen. For the person who took it, knowing that the items inside were toys and kids clothes, as well as gift certificates for us to enjoy.... shame on you. I know times are tough on us all, but these people stepped up to help my family, and I do the best I can to pay it forward. My kids have resorted to saying we were visited by the grinch. You have the option of returning them, there is a police report filed. If you are really in need, I would offer to help you if I can.
